About

In this Communist nation, Christianity is branded as a Western influence so believers are often seen as a threat by the authorities. Persecution is more common in rural areas and mostly comes from family and community. Sometimes new Christians are expelled from their communities and forced to live in the jungle for months, even years, before relocating.

Story

“If God wants me to die because of His will, I am prepared to lay down my life for Jesus.”

– Beun from Laos.

Beun was imprisoned for five months for sharing the gospel. But his time in prison made his faith stronger. After his release he continued to share the love of Jesus.

Pray

Pray for Christians in Laos to be bold in sharing their faith in the face of political and community pressure. Pray for new believers to stand strong in Christ.
